

I am studying cognitive responses whilst viewing horror films because I want to look at the cause-and-effect relationship between what invokes these responses and how these responses present themselves in order to help my reader identify why they feel the ways in which they do when watching horror movies.